Freedom of Information Annual Report

Queensland
Government

Minister's introduction

This is the 17th annual report to the Queensland Parliament on the operation of the Freedom of Information Act 1992 (Qld) (the Act). The object of this Act is to extend as far as possible the right of the community to have access to information held by the Queensland government.

The Freedom of Information Annual Report 2008-09 gives an overview of Freedom of Information (FOI) activities across both state and local government in Queensland.

A total of 14,081 FOI applications were received by state and local government agencies during the 2008-09 year, which is an increase of 5.7 percent from the previous year.

In 2008-09, full and partial access was granted to 85 percent of documents requested.

This report will be the final report on the operation of the Act. On 1 July 2009, the Act was replaced by the Right to Information Act 2009 (Qld) and the Information Privacy Act 2009 (Qld). This new legislation, the result of an independent expert review of the Act, is designed to modernise Queensland's information access and information privacy regimes. The new legislation reflects the Government's commitment to maximise the public's access to government information, so as to ensure the transparency and accountability of government, and the strength of our democracy.

I am pleased to present the Freedom of Information Annual Report 2008-09 to Parliament.

Activity under the Freedom of Information Act 1992

Introduction

The Freedom of Information Act 1992 (Qld) (the Act) gives people a right to access, subject to limited exemptions and exceptions, or amend documents held by ministers, state government departments, local government and public authorities.

Under section 108 of the Act, the minister responsible for administering the Act is required to prepare a report on the operation of the Act and table the report in Parliament. This is the report for the year 2008-09.

Underpinning the Act is the principle that the right of access to information makes government more open, accountable and participatory. The Act also acknowledges that individual citizens require access to the information recorded by government concerning their personal affairs and provides the means to ensure that such information is accurate and up-to-date.

These principles are qualified by recognition that certain information should not be accessible under the Act. The Act recognises that essential public and private interests would suffer if there was an unrestricted public right to access all classes of information.

This Freedom of Information Annual Report 2008-09 is the 17th prepared under section 108 since the commencement of the Act in 1992. Agencies subject to the Act have provided information about their FOI operations for inclusion in this report. This is the final report under the Act. The Act has been repealed and future reporting will be under section 185 of the Right to Information Act 2009 (Qld) and section 194 Information Privacy Act 2009 (Qld).

A note on the personal/non-personal classification

Freedom of Information applications are classified as either 'personal' or 'non-personal'. Any application for a document that does not concern the applicant's personal affairs is a 'non-personal' application. Non-personal applications are subject to a mandatory application fee and processing charges where applicable.

Overview 2008-09

During the 2008-09 reporting period, a total of 14,081 applications (7,759 personal and 6,322 non-personal) were received. This is 761 more than the previous year, which is an increase of 5.7 percent. State government agencies received 12,776 applications (7,499 personal and 5,277 non-personal) and the local government sector received 1,305 applications (260 personal and 1,045 non-personal).

Table 1

Shows the number and percentage of personal and non-personal applications for the period 2008-09 for state government and local government.

Amendment applications

Any person has the right under the Act to apply to amend information held by the Queensland Government about their personal affairs which is inaccurate, incomplete, out-of-date or misleading.

There were 28 applications for amendment of documents received across both state and local government in 2008-09. This is a decrease of 36 percent on the previous year.

Fees and charges

The Freedom of Information Regulation 2006 sets out the application fees and charges for documents for non-personal applications. Charges can be imposed for processing (eg. time spent retrieving documents and making decisions) and providing access (eg. supervising inspection, photocopying documents).

The Queensland public sector, including local government, collected in 2008-09:

- $188,438.20 in access application fees
- $286,279.63 in access processing charges.

Report on the operation of the Freedom of Information Act 1992

The appendices to the report

Appendices 1.1-1.14 show the FOI activity across the Queensland public sector in accordance with s.108(4) of the Act.

Difficulties encountered—s.108(2)

The Department of Child Safety experienced a marked increase in FOI applications due to the announcement by government of the Redress Scheme. The Queensland Government Redress Scheme was introduced in May 2007 with funding of up to $100 million to complete its response to the recommendations of the Forde Inquiry into the abuse of children in Queensland institutions. The scheme provided ex gratia payments ranging from $7,000 to a maximum of $40,000 to people who experienced abuse and neglect as children in Queensland institutions. Potential applicants of the Redress Scheme are informed that they do not require their information under FOI, but many seek access to their personal information regardless. During the reporting period the department continued to experience a backlog of applications making it difficult to meet the 45 day statutory time limit for applications received. The department is committed to addressing this issue of the backlog of applications and is currently developing strategies and reviewing business processes that aim to reduce existing numbers and prevent further backlogs developing.

The Commission for Children and Young People and Child Guardian advised that they experienced some minor operational difficulties.

- Community visitors are widely dispersed across the state and when documents held by them fall within the scope of an FOI application, there can be difficulties in terms of the timely management of applications. However, changed practices such as the centralised filing of completed notebooks has assisted in the management of this issue.
- As the commission is a small agency, large numbers of applications or voluminous applications can create difficulties in terms of the timely management of FOI applications due to resource constraints. However, all applications received during the 2008-09 year were finalised within the legislative timeframes.

Number of applications— s.108(4)(a)

The appendices to the report contain information detailing the number of applications made to each agency and for official documents of ministers.

- Appendix 1.1—Number of access applications (state government)
- Appendix 1.2—Number of access applications (local government).

Preliminary and final assessment notices— s.108(4)(b)

Agencies are required to report on the number of preliminary assessment notices and the number of final assessment notices given to applicants by each agency and each minister.

Information about assessment notices on applications is contained in:

- Appendix 1.13—Preliminary and final assessment notices (state government)
- Appendix 1.14—Preliminary and final assessment notices (local government).

Decisions not to give access— s.108(4)(c)

Information required by s.108(4)(c) of the Act is contained in:

- Appendix 1.7—Action taken on documents (state government)
- Appendix 1.8—Action taken on documents (local government).

Action taken on documents considered

Access to documents may be granted in full or in part. A partially released document may have some information deleted or blacked out on the copy provided to the applicant. The total rate of full or partial access to documents process in 2008-09 was 85 percent across all state government agencies.

Internal review applications under s.52 and s.60— s.108(4)(d)

Information required under s.108(4)(d) of the Act is contained in:

- Appendix 1.9—Internal review decisions (state government)
- Appendix 1.10—Internal review decisions (local government).

Applications for amendment of information—ss.108(4)(e) and (f)

Information required under ss.108(4)(e) and (f) of the Act is contained in:

- Appendix 1.3—Number of amendment applications and amendment internal reviews received (state government)
- Appendix 1.4—Number of amendment applications and amendment internal reviews received (local government).

Statement of affairs and notices received—s.108(4)(g)

Section 18 of the Act requires that each agency publish annually a statement of affairs including:

- a description of the agency's structure and functions
- the ways its functions affect members of the community
- any arrangements for public participation in policy formulation
- the kinds of documents it usually holds and its access procedures.

Under s.20(1) of the Act, a person can serve a notice on any agency stating that it is not complying with its obligation to publish a proper statements of affairs. There were no notices in 2008-09.

Disciplinary action—s.108(4)(h)

There were no reported instances of disciplinary action arising from the administration of the Act.

Fees and charges collected by agencies—s.108(4)(i)

Information about the amounts of fees and charges collected by agencies in the reporting period is contained in:

- Appendix 1.11—Fees and charges (state government)
- Appendix 1.12—Fees and charges (local government).

The total amount of fees and charges collected by agencies remains low, representing a small part of the costs incurred by agencies in administering the Act.

Efforts in administering the Act—s.108(4)(j)

Section 108(4)(j) of the Act requires this report to detail any efforts made by an agency or minister in administering the Act.

- The Department of the Premier and Cabinet's FOI Unit conducts awareness sessions as part of the departmental and ministerial induction programs and also provides additional awareness training to Senior Ministerial Policy Advisors, departmental work areas and portfolio agencies on request. The department's FOI staff attended FOI training presented by the Department of Justice and Attorney-General and other FOI training providers.
- Queensland Treasury electronically processes FOI applications. Documents are scanned and then processed using specialised FOI software. This results in savings to the department and to applicants.
- The Department of Environment and Resource Management implemented electronic processing using redaction technology. Staff attended external training sessions.
- Queensland Police Service (QPS) FOI and Privacy Officers have attended various training sessions provided by the Department of Justice and Attorney-General; and in-house training has been provided to QPS FOI and Privacy staff to increase general awareness and understanding of the Act.

- The Commission for Children and Young People and Child Guardian have implemented initiatives during the year to improve the administrative and implementation of the Act. Where possible, requests are processed in accordance with the commission's administrative release policy. FOI processing officers attended relevant training and regularly attended FOI network meetings and other meetings/briefings. Training is provided to internal staff about FOI processes and information about FOI is made available for applicants on the commission's website.
- The Queensland Audit Office (QAO) Records Manager has been delegated the responsibility of FOI Coordinator and is responsible for all enquiries regarding FOI. During the year software packages Redax and StampPDF were purchased to assist with the editing process for applications. The Library and Information Centre and meeting rooms situated on Levels 10 and 11 of Central Plaza One, 345 Queens Street, Brisbane are available to applicants to view documents sought under the Act. Provided prior arrangements are made with either the FOI Coordinator or the Library and Information Centre Manager, members of the public can utilise the resources of the library. These include copies of Auditor-General's Reports to Parliament and other QAO publications, including the QAO Statement of Affairs. Copies of Auditor-General's Reports from 1998-99 and other QAO publications can be accessed on the Internet. As part of QAO's induction program, on commencing employment with QAO, officers are provided with information regarding the requirements of the FOI legislation.
- South Bank Corporation staff attended Department of Justice and Attorney-General training sessions and are also involved in the FOI network. South Bank has identified records management issues particularly in relation to emails, through the implementation of the TRIM document management system. This has required South Bank Corporation to identify ways to remedy those issues to ensure availability and retention of all information.

Legislative changes

Only minor amendments to the Act were made in the reporting period:

- The definition of 'parliamentary committee' was changed from 'Legal, Constitutional and Administrative Review Committee' to 'Law, Justice and Safety Committee'
- The term 'Queensland Rail' in Schedule 2 was replaced with the reference 'QR Limited ACN 12469967'
- References to the Financial Administration and Audit Act 1997 were replaced with references to the Auditor General Act 2009
- References to the Local Government Act 2003 were replaced with references to the Local Government Act 2009.

On 1 July 2009, the Act was repealed and replaced by the Right to Information Act 2009 and the Information Privacy Act 2009.

Key initiatives

1 July 2008 to 30 June 2009

In June 2008, an independent review Panel chaired by Dr David Solomon, AM, delivered its report The Right to Information – Reviewing Queensland’s Freedom of Information Act (the report). The Panel undertook a comprehensive and wide-ranging review of Queensland’s FOI Act, considering the purposes and principles of FOI, whether the Act satisfied those principles and purposes, and ways to improve and modernize Queensland’s information access laws and policies.

The report contained 141 recommendations across a wide range of issues. The Panel recommended that there be significant legislative change (‘not merely an upgrade of the legislation, but a new model’¹) as well as reform across a number of other information policy areas. It made recommendations about issues such as managing records, developing a whole of government information policy, establishing an ‘ex ante’ decision making framework for document release, licensing Government information, routinely publishing certain Cabinet material and new roles and functions for the Information Commissioner.

Overall, the report proposed moving to a ‘push’ model of information disclosure, with greater proactive and routine release of information, new right to information and privacy legislation and maximum disclosure of non-personal information.

The Government’s response to the report² indicated its support in full for 116 of the recommendations, and either partial or ‘in principle’ support for another 23 recommendations. Only two recommendations were not supported. As a result, the Right to Information Act 2009 and the Information Privacy Act 2009 commenced on 1 July 2009, together with a range of policy initiatives relating to government-held information. The FOI Act was repealed at the same time.

Lead agency role

The Department of Justice and Attorney-General was actively involved in the consultation process for the new legislation and continued its lead agency role in relation to the Act until the new legislation commenced. It therefore provided leadership about the Act in relation to policy and legislation, education and training, information and support and community awareness.

- Policy and Legislation

The Department of Justice and Attorney-General was actively involved in liaising with the Department of the Premier and Cabinet as the new legislation was developed. Staff attended workshops, provided information and operational advice to the Department of the Premier and Cabinet and provided comments on consultation drafts of the new legislation.

- Education and Training

During the first half of the reporting period there was a strong focus to provide education and training across the public sector. These sessions addressed FOI and privacy issues and also aimed to raise awareness of the new legislation and information reforms.

In the second half of the reporting period, the Department of Justice and Attorney-General continued to provide education and training about the Act. The aim was to improve FOI decision making across the sector, provide FOI practitioners with flexible, targeted training opportunities and to support agency in-house training.

- Information and Support

The Department of Justice and Attorney General continued to provide the community with information about FOI by offering a timely support and advice service for FOI practitioners through the FOI help line and publications. The Queensland FOI website provided information to the community and agencies about the FOI process in Queensland.

Support to FOI officers was also promoted through the continued work of the local government and state government FOI networks convened by the Department of Justice and Attorney-General. These networks served to disseminate information and provide a forum for discussion of general FOI issues of common concern to practitioners.

- Community Awareness

In addition to assisting the public sector, the Department of Justice and Attorney General also promoted awareness of FOI and administrative access schemes to the broader community and groups such as the media, private legal practitioners and community groups. This occurred through the State Government FOI website and helpline.

Other efforts in administering the Act

Administrative access

Administrative access schemes are an alternative to seeking access to documents under the Act. Many Agencies generally provide access, where practicable, through administrative release where, for example, the applicant is seeking access to their own personal information, or where the information is generally publicly accessible as a public register. Access through an administrative scheme may be provided on payment of a fee, or for no fee at all, depending on the information. It is often the case that access to documents under an administrative access scheme is provided within a shorter period than under FOI.

Appendices

Appendices 1.1-1.14

The appendices to the report provide consolidated information about applications made, and decisions given, across the Queensland public sector, including local government for 2008-09.

The appendices contain information that is required to be reported on under s.108(4)(a)-(e) and (i) of the Act.

Information relating to the other requirements of s.108 is contained in the main body of this annual report.

Machinery of government changes

In March 2009, the Premier announced a significant reform agenda for the Queensland public service. As a result of restructuring—Administrative Arrangements Order (No. 1) 2009 and Public Service Departmental Arrangements Notice (No. 2) 2009 of 26 March 2009—ten former government entities were abolished on 26 March 2009. Please note that the following appendices for the State Government data reflect these changes and report separately the period before the changes in the departmental administrative arrangements (1 July 2008 - 26 March 2009) and the period after the changes in the departmental administrative arrangements (27 March 2009 - 30 June 2009).

A further consequence of the change to the administrative arrangement is that the Ministers and portfolio bodies are now reported separately to the departments. The departments and portfolios which were not affected by the administrative changes, (Department of Health, Department of Police and Department of Public Works), have been reported in the post Machinery of Government period ending 30 June 2009.
