ATTORNEY-GENERAL AND MINISTER FOR JUSTICE

In reply please quote:

The Honourable N J Turner, MLA
Speaker of the Legislative Assembly
Parliament House
BRISBANE Q 4000

Dear Mr Speaker

I hereby present the fourth Annual Report on the operation of the Freedom of Information Act 1992 (the Act) as required by section 108 of the Act to be laid on the table of the Legislative Assembly each year.

Queensland agencies subject to the Act continue to achieve one of the highest rates of release of documents of any Australian jurisdiction, in excess of 94% for both State government agencies and local governments, a rate compared with 92.2% and 91.7% respectively in 1994/95. While the volume of documents considered by decision makers fell from 1,282,362 in 1994/95 to 971,554 in the current reporting period, agencies experienced an average 12.5% increase in the number of applications received.

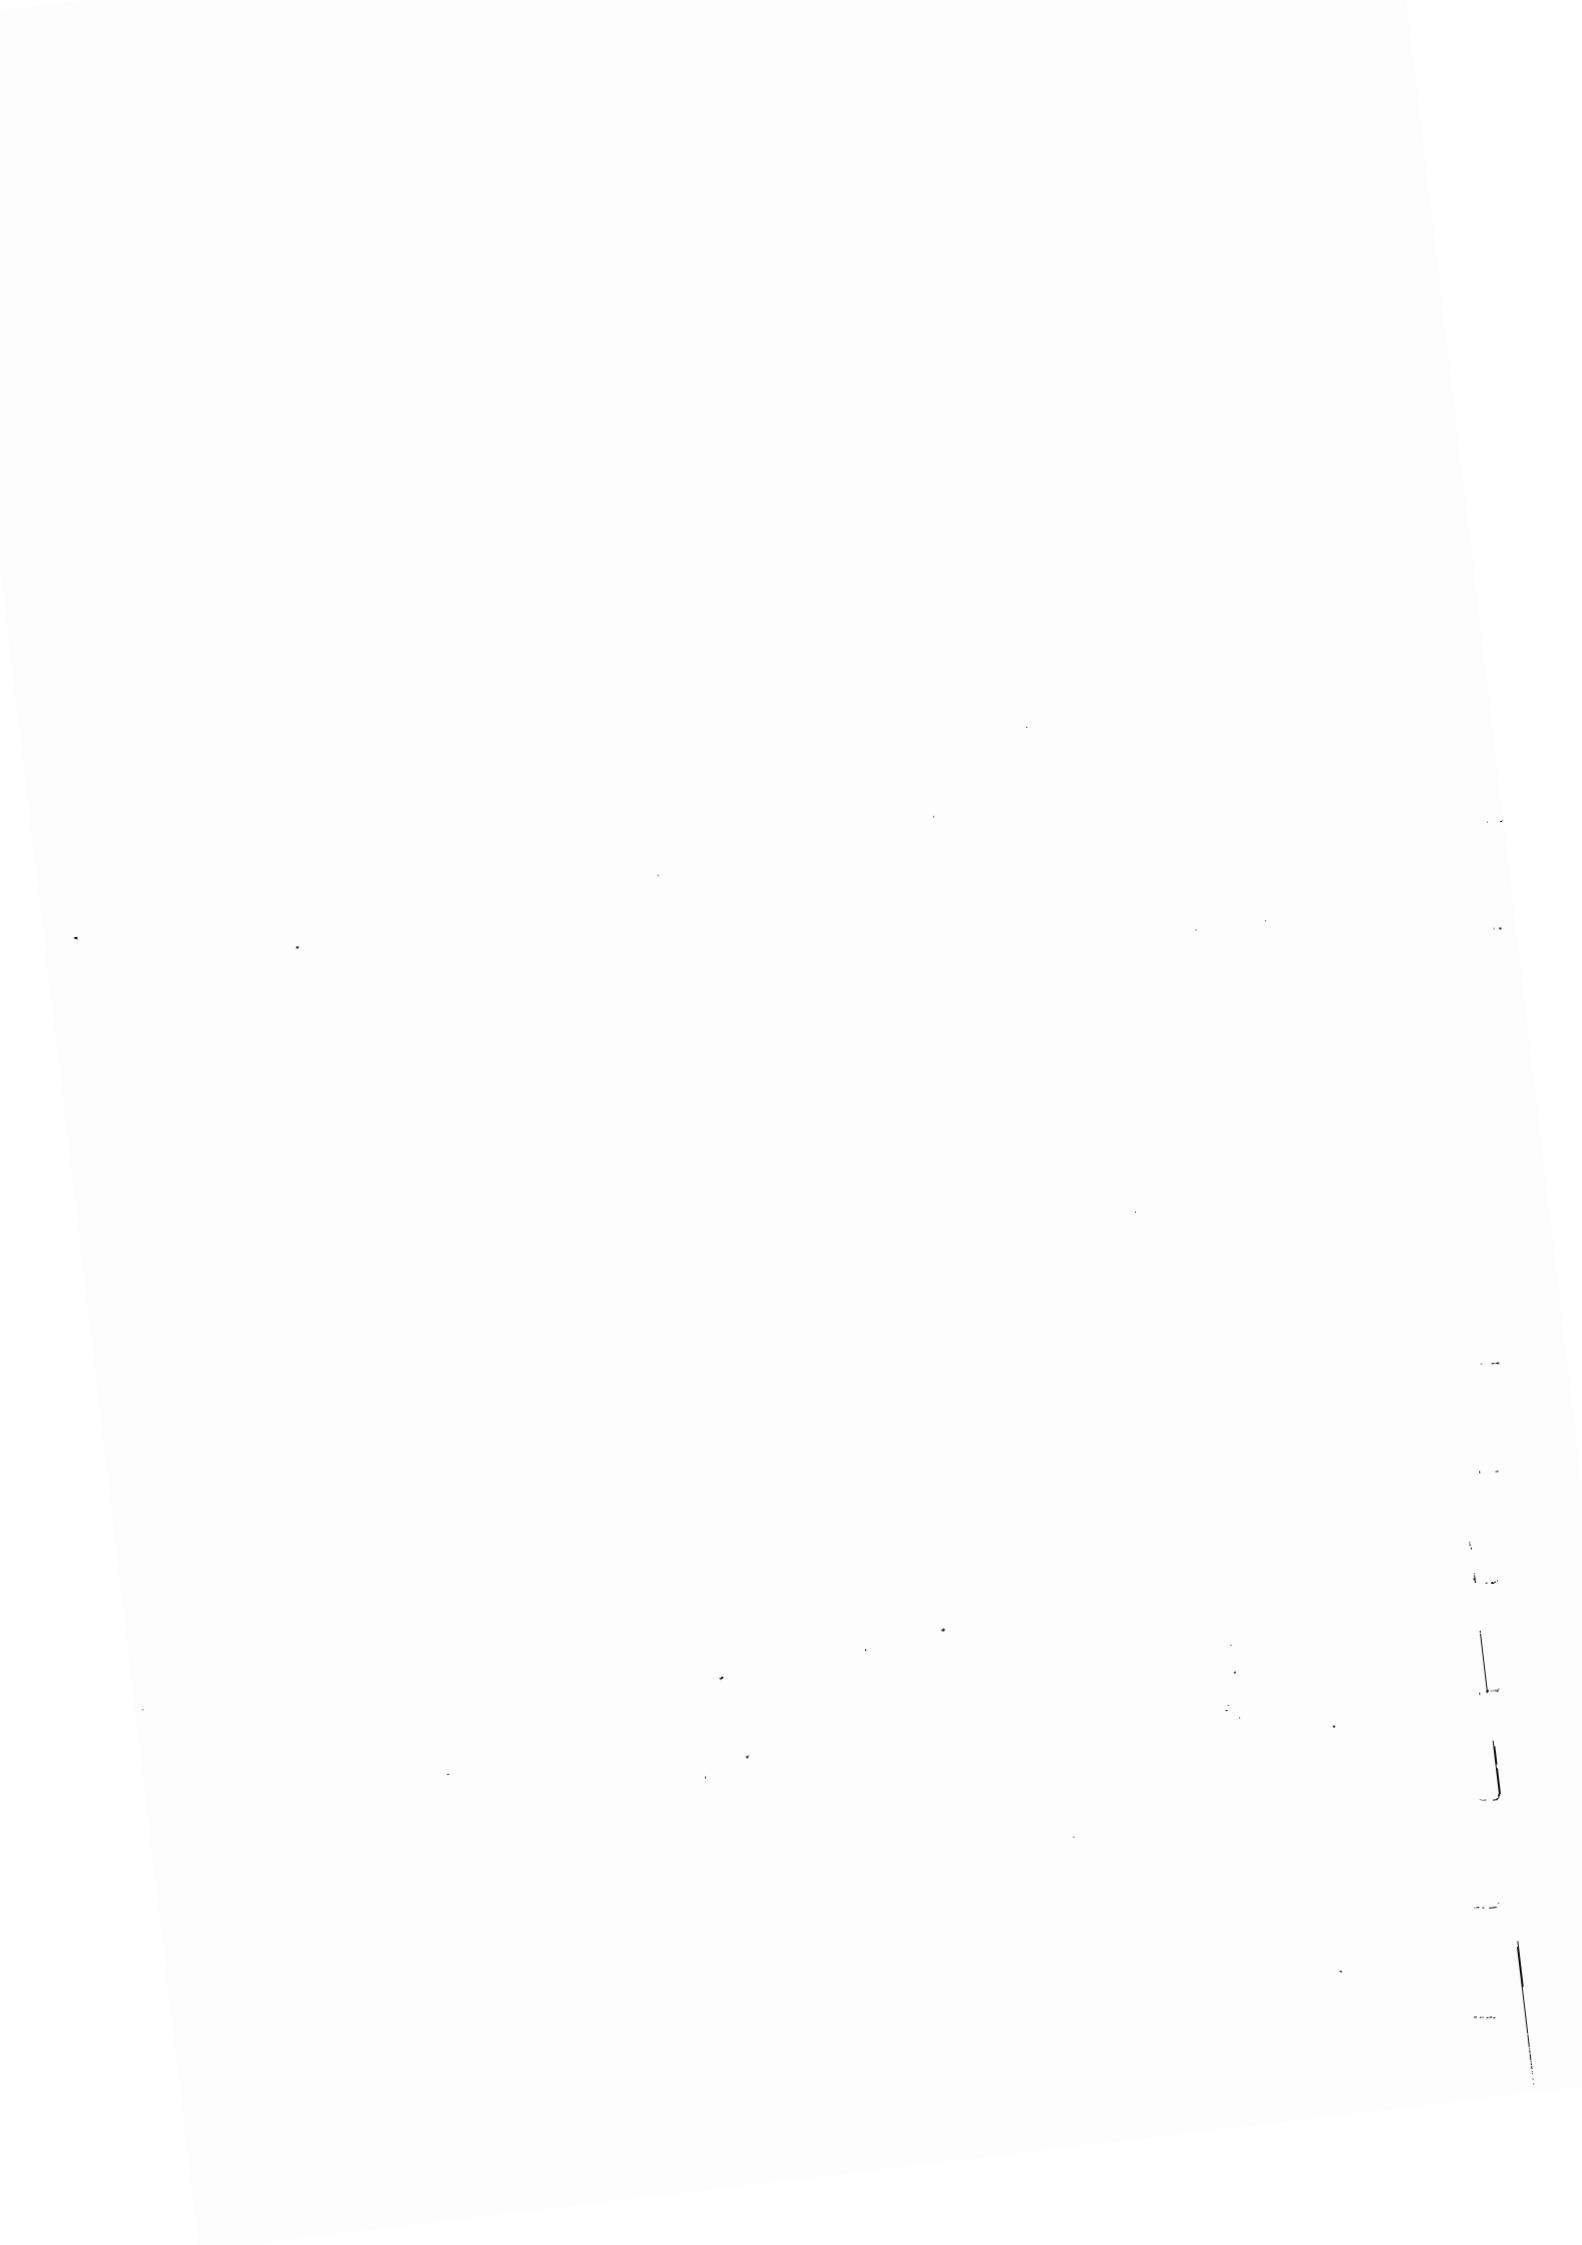

Applicants seeking access to documents which concern the applicant's personal affairs continue to constitute the largest proportion of applications made to State government agencies (61.9%), while the reverse is true for local government agencies with personal affairs type applications constituting only 18.8% of applications received.

I commend this Report to you.

Yours sincerely

1.1 Role of the Human Rights and Administrative Law Branch

The Human Rights and Administrative Law Branch (the ALB) was restructured during the financial year, incorporating a name change from the Human Rights and Administrative Law Division to its current title.

The functions of the ALB relating to the operation of the Freedom of Information Act 1992 (the Act) for the current reporting period included:

- ▶ preparation of the annual report to Parliament on the administration of the Act as required under s. 108
- ▶ provision of policy and other advice to State government departments, local government and statutory authorities subject to the operation of the Act

- ▶ ongoing policy development, including the review and rewrite of the Freedom of Information Policy and Procedures Manual for use by agency decision makers
- ▶ development and facilitation of training programs for decision makers, including specialist courses and agency-specific seminars
- ▶ organisation and facilitation of INFOTWO, the Second National Conference on Freedom of Information, in conjunction with State Records, South Australia
- ▶ community education on the operation of the Act
- ▶ provision of advice to potential users of the Act, including members of the general community and their representatives

The FOI component of the ALB comprises one Senior Project Officer (AO6 level), with partial access to administrative support at AO2 level.

Telephone requests for assistance continue at a high level, with an average of 320 calls dealt with by the Senior Project Officer each month. Numerous other calls requiring basic information on the Act, or redirection to the appropriate agency are dealt with by administrative staff within the ALB. The nature of calls that require more detailed advice is divided almost equally between those from government agencies and members of the community.

1.2 Training, community awareness and information sessions

Demand for the provision of courses for both new decision makers and those with more specialized needs continued throughout the year, with such courses being offered in Brisbane and a number of regional centres. New courses in the areas of complaints, confidential information, commercial affairs, and preparation of decision letters were well received, as were basic courses for new decision makers and internal review officers.

In addition, the ALB offered a new course for officers who assist decision makers with a focus on policy and procedural matters. For the first time, information sessions for members of the legal fraternity were offered in regional centres, to assist them in the use of the Act on behalf of clients.

In the 12 months to 30 June 1996, the ALB delivered the following courses and/or sessions as listed in Table 1, in the southeast corner of the State, as well as regional centres such as Cairns, Townsville, Mackay and Rockhampton.

Table 1:

SESSION TYPE / COURSE TITLE	NO. OFFERED	NO. OF PARTICIPANTS
Information session - general	3	84
New / Basic Decision maker	7	79
Advanced / Refresher Decision maker	1	16
Assisting Decision makers	1	14
Internal Review Officer	2	20
Letters of Complaint & Confidentiality	6	67
Writing Decision letters	3	33
Agency-specific seminars	3	85
Community education / addresses / speaking engagements / forums	5	121

Feedback on all training or seminar sessions offered by the ALB is collected through evaluation forms completed by each participant. As with other years, support for courses offered by the ALB continues at a high level. Responses to community education sessions indicate they were well received and the content considered of high benefit to participants. The following comments typify responses received during the reporting period:

Overall rating of training course:

"Informative and entertaining"
"I intend that all my staff will attend future sessions"
"Very valuable"
"Excellent."

Information session 30/5/96

"Have always found this type of training very useful and fulfilling a real need for FOI Coordinators throughout Queensland"

"Highly beneficial as both (an) introductory course and refresher course"

"This was an excellent introduction . . . in FOI. Previously thought of FOI as boring, but now it will be an interesting and challenging area to work in"

"Trainer excellent, content very good"

(Primary Industries, Transport, Education)

Decision-maker courses (various throughout the year)

On the value and usefulness of specialist courses (Complaints and confidentiality, Writing decision letters)

"Clearly explained - good practical examples"

"Excellent material, very well presented"

Specialist courses (various throughout the year)

On the value and usefulness of the courses in assisting officers in their day to day work:

"Will assist me in my workplace, there is a need for follow up training"

(Primary Industries)

1.3 Coordinator's forums and the Local Government FOI Network

Two forums for State government Coordinators were conducted during the reporting period, while the Local Government FOI Network met three times. Some State government agencies have not indicated a continuing need for regular forums, although the ALB considers it is essential that agencies continue to develop their expertise in administrative law through discussion of relevant issues and emerging case law. Forums provide a convenient and cost-effective mechanism for this to occur. Regular contact with smaller State government departments, or those with more recently appointed decision makers, is maintained and assistance through the provision of recent case law and other advice continues to be provided on request.

Responsibility for coordination of the Local Government FOI Network is shared between member local governments and attended by the Senior Project Officer of the ALB. Workshops on issues of particular relevance to local government are conducted and feedback to date indicates these have been considered most beneficial to the participating local government members.

1.4 FOI Policy and Procedures Manual

The revised Freedom of Information Policy and Procedures Manual was completed to a final draft stage during the reporting period. Feedback from a number of representative agencies on the draft manual has been sought, and it is expected that the document will be available in final form published in the near future.

1.5 Other services provided

Little use has been made by State government agencies of the Resource Library maintained by the Senior Project Officer, although relevant case law and articles of interest on administrative law matters are collected from various sources, including the Internet.

2.0 SUMMARY OF AMENDMENTS TO THE FREEDOM OF INFORMATION ACT 1992

During the reporting period, the Act was amended as follows:

section 108 Annual Report

3.0 FREEDOM OF INFORMATION AND ITS USERS

3.1 Number of applications for access to documents

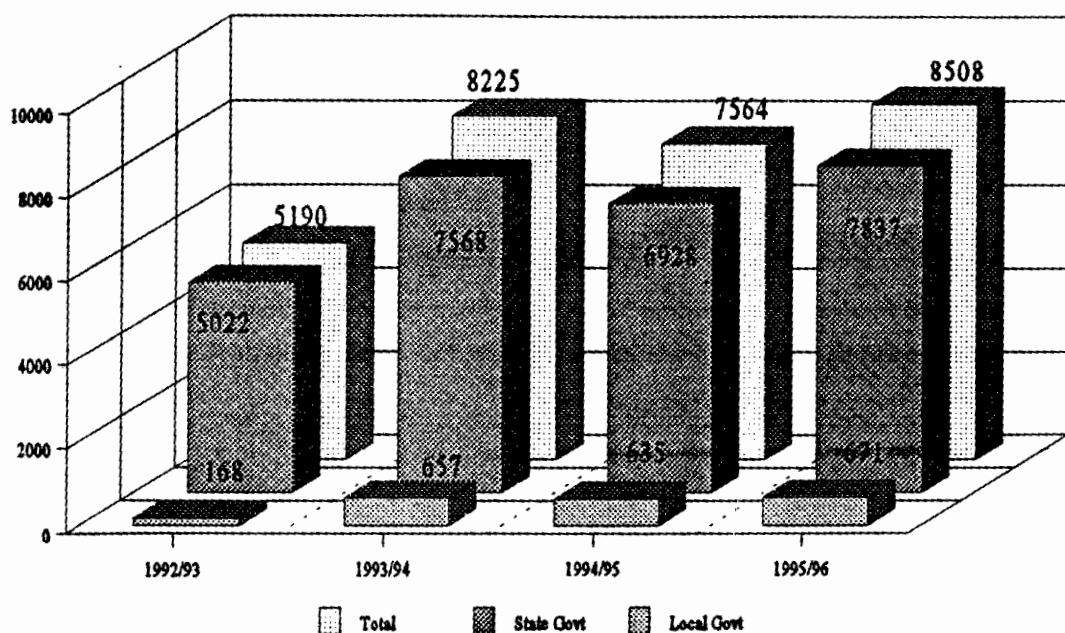

The current reporting period witnessed an average 12.5% increase in the number of applications for access received by both State and local government agencies. The expectation from previous years that with the passage of time and increased availability through administrative access schemes to documents, the overall number of applications for access would fall, has clearly not been realised.

At the close of the reporting period, the Queensland Police Service (QPS) had 249 applications for access on hand, a majority of which were overdue. This was a result of a 28.3% increase in the number of applications for access received, from a total of 968 in 1994/95 to 1242 in 1995/96. However, due to a concerted effort, the QPS also managed to finalise 993 applications for access in the current reporting period, an increase of 54.7% on the previous year's figure of 642.

Other agencies experiencing a large increase in the number of applications for access included the Department of Mines and Energy (25.9%), Department of Public Works and Housing (116%), and the Department of Environment (20.3%).

Local government agencies received an increased number of applications (671) compared with a total of 636 in the 1994/95 reporting period, although a number of local government agencies did not provide statistical information for inclusion in this year's report.

3.2 Types of application for access

State government agencies

Since the Act commenced operation on 19 November 1992 for State government agencies, the percentage of personal affairs type applications has continued to fall from a high of 75.4% in the 1992/93 reporting period to its current level of 61.9%. The current rate is comparable to the 1994/95 rate of 63% and attributable in the main to the continued success of administrative access arrangements implemented by agencies, whereby members of the community are able to access a range of documentation outside the Act.

Table 3: Type of Application Received - State Government

Local government agencies

Local government statistics have not changed significantly from the 1994/95 reporting period. The majority of applications for access received by local government agencies were for documents which did not concern the personal affairs of the applicant (non-personal affairs type application). Non-personal affairs type applications increased from 81.2% in 1994/95 to 85.2% for the current reporting period.

Table 4: Type of Application Received - Local Government

3.3 Number of documents considered

The overall number of documents considered as part of applications for access dropped by 24.2%, from a 1994/95 total of 1,282,362 to 971,554 for the current reporting period. At State government level, the drop in total number of documents considered was 19.6% (205,424 documents), while local government agencies experienced a drop of 45% (105,384 documents). The large change in local government figures is explained, in part, by the failure of a number of local government agencies to supply the required statistical information to the ALB for inclusion in the 1995/96 annual report. One agency, the Gold Coast City Council, advised it received in excess of 60 applications under the Act during the reporting period but was unable to provide any information for inclusion in this year's report, notwithstanding the provision of assistance from officers of the ALB who attended at that agency's administration centre.

However, not all agencies experienced a reduction in the number of documents considered. The QPS experienced a 39.9% increase in the overall number of documents considered, from 14,420 in 1994/95 to 20,176 in the current reporting period. In combination with the increased volume of applications being received and the dramatic improvement in finalisation of access requests (referred to in 3.1 above), QPS continues to demonstrate strong commitment to meeting its obligations under the Act, despite the large number of applications current and outstanding.

3.4 Rates of release

Rates of release of documents, either in full or in part, continued to improve and all agencies are to be congratulated on their efforts in this regard. State government agencies achieved a release rate of 94.1% (842,802), an improvement on 92.2% in the 1994/95 reporting period. The rate of full refusal dropped from 7.8% in the 1994/95 reporting period, to its current rate of 5.9%.

Local government agencies also reported improved release rates from 91.7% in 1994/95 to 95.0% (122,340) in the current reporting period, with a corresponding rate of full refusal dropping to 5.0%.

Table 5: Documents Released (in part or full) - Local Government

Table 6: Documents released (in part or full) - State Government

3.5 Response times

In general, the majority of agencies subject to the Act continue to make concerted efforts to meet the statutory time periods for dealing with applications for access. In addition, many agencies finalise requests well within the specified time period. However, the ALB is aware of a small number of agencies where inadequate resourcing of the particular FOI Unit, such as the secondment of the FOI Coordinator to another position, has resulted in considerable delays in dealing with applications for access. While essentially a management issue, the ALB has addressed concerns raised with the specific agencies concerned.

State government

The current reporting period evidences a small increase in the overall time taken by State government agencies to deal with applications for access. The number of applications processed within 45 days after receipt by an agency fell slightly from 69.1% in 1994/95 to 68.2% in 1995/96. Applications processed within 60 days after receipt by an agency also fell from 12.1% in 1994/95 to 11.8% in 1995/96. Applications processed within 75 days after receipt by an agency increased slightly from 5.2% in 1994/95 to 5.5% in 1995/96 while applications which took longer than 75 days to process increased from 13.5% in 1994/95 to 14.5% in the current reporting period.

However, by removing the response time statistics of two major agencies, the QPS and the Department of Families, Youth and Community Care (DFYCC), the response times shared by all other State government agencies improve markedly. For example, only 4.8% of the remaining applications took longer than 75 days to process, compared with 14.5% if the QPS and DFYCC figures are included. Similarly, 80.4% of the remaining applications were processed within 45 days after receipt by an agency, compared with only 68.2% if the QPS and DFYCC figures are included. It should be noted that in some cases, due to the complexity of the application, applicants and agencies agree on extensions of time to complete this process.

Local government

Local government agency response times continue to improve with 81.1% of all applications for access being dealt with inside 45 days after receipt by the particular local government. This is an increase of almost 5% on the 1994/95 reporting period.

Table 7: Response Times - State government

Local government

Only 3.6% of applications received by local government agencies took longer than 75 days to process.

3.6 Applications for amendment

As with previous years, applicants who seek amendment of documents to which the applicant has had prior access and the applicant believes are inaccurate, incomplete out-of-date or misleading, comprise a small number of the overall applications made during the current reporting period.

Table 8: Applications for amendment

5.0 OPERATION OF THE ACT

5.1 Section 108(2)

Section 108(2) of the Act requires that agencies include details of any difficulties experienced during the reporting period in relation to the administration of the Act. The 1994/95 report indicated that a number of agencies preferred to address a number of administrative issues in their submissions to the Committee responsible for the Two Year Review of the FOI Act.

However a number of issues, some of which appear to be of continuing concern to several agencies, were raised in submissions relevant to preparation of the 1995/96 report. A summary of the issues raised appears below.

Queensland Health (QH) noted that, contrary to expectations based on the operation of similar legislation in other jurisdictions, it continues to receive a high volume of applications and that "the impact of processing FOI applications in such high number, places a burden on the already strained health resources."

It should be noted that QH implemented an administrative access scheme in March 1994 providing first party access to health records, including the provision of photocopies, under the supervision of the treating health professional. The scheme was intended, in part, to facilitate access to health records outside the operation of the Act. It would appear that in spite of the success of this scheme, a large number of applications are still being made, or are required to be made, under FOI legislation.

Queensland Corrective Services Commission (QCSC) noted that applications for access "are becoming more specific, indicating a more informed and aware clientele." The issue of information of a psychological nature, rather than psychiatric or medical, being disclosed through an appropriately qualified psychologist where disclosure might be detrimental to the physical or mental health or well-being of an inmate was also raised. It was suggested that s. 44(3) be amended to include information of a psychological nature to permit release of that kind information through a psychologist nominated by the inmate where the nominated practitioner "can explain the terminology and temper the inmate reaction to the nature of the information" which is considered by the QCSC a better alternative "to not releasing the information at all."

The Department of Education (DE) raised the issue of time periods in respect of applications for internal review. It should be noted that s. 52(6) makes it clear that the time period to deal with an application for internal review is 14 days from the date after the application is received by the agency. While it is acknowledged that the 14 day time period for an agency to deal with an application for internal review can place a strain on the resources available to process such applications, the Department may wish to explore reasons for the large number of applications for internal review received (in excess of 25%), while the average for all other State government agencies is 4.3%.

The Department of Mines and Energy (DME) reported it had expended considerable effort in reviewing its records management and administrative access arrangements. The Department noted that an "extensive education program for all departmental staff in relation to their responsibilities under the Act . . . has effected a considerable improvement in the accuracy of the location and collation of documents . . . (and) has reduced the operational difficulties which were experienced in the past."

The Queensland Police Service raised a number of issues which have been previously canvassed and included in the submission of that agency concerning the review of the legislation. Those concerns continue to relate to matters of privacy of individuals, the perceived re-victimisation of victims through contact required under the Act when dealing with applications made by an offender (particularly when those matters relate to sexual offences, child abuse, and domestic violence matters), the difficulties of protecting information relating to criminal intelligence and informants, and the lack of consultation on documents created by QPS but held by other agencies.

In relation to the lack of consultation, the ALB supports the spirit of s. 51 and urges all agencies to consult appropriately. The ALB has also addressed this issue through training workshops and courses offered throughout the reporting period.

The Department of Primary Industries (DPI) commented on the changes to the structure of both DPI and the Department of Natural Resources (DNR) and the impact of those changes on documents shared by both agencies. This issues raised could be expected to also have been a matter which concerned a number of other agencies, also the subject of restructuring due to portfolio changes, such as the Department of the Premier and Cabinet (DPC) and the Department of Economic and Trade Development (DETD), although the DPC had no new comment to make on operational difficulties, referring instead to its detailed submission to the Inter-Departmental Working Group (IDWG) conducting the 2 Year Review of the FOI Act.

A number of agencies raised the issue of resources in relation to the administration of the Act, including QH, QPS, DME, and the Department of Tourism, Small Business and Industry (DTSBI).

Concerns continue to be expressed in relation to the fees and charge's regime, and the discrepancy between the cost of administration of the Act and the amount of fees and charges actually collected. Two agencies, notably DE and Queensland Transport (QT) expressed concern at the requirement to collect small sums, for example less than $10.00, when the cost of processing such amounts exceeded the amount of charges collected.

It should be noted that freedom of information affords rights to citizens, in a similar way to the manner in which the Courts do. While there are elements of "user pays" in both, the costs of administration are not intended and could never be met by individual users, but rather by the community as a whole as an integral part of the democratic society in which we live.

5.2 Section 108(4)

Section 108(4) of the Act requires certain particulars of the operation of each agency and Minister to be included in the report tabled in the Legislative Assembly. Information in respect of s. 108(4)((a)-(e) and (h) is included in the relevant appendices which follow.

In relation to s. 108(4)(f), no agency reported receipt of a notice under s. 20(1). In addition, no agency advised that disciplinary action against any officer was taken in relation to the administration of the Act, as required to be reported under s. 108(4)(g) of the Act.

Most State government agencies advised similarly in respect of s. 108(4)(i), that a reading room or other facility was made available for use by applicants or other members of the community for inspection purposes. Where a dedicated reading room was not available, all other agencies advised that arrangements to use an appropriate facility were made as required. Most agencies reported that policy documentation and other information was available for inspection, or regularly on display in the relevant room where a permanent reading room or similar facility was available. Additional efforts were made by agencies such as QH which advised that "the public is able to access the Corporate Office library (without borrowing rights) and the Publications Section located on the ground floor of the Queensland Health building."

In relation to s. 108(4)(j), a number of agencies reported that educative programs or awareness sessions were conducted on a regular basis to ensure all agency officers were aware of their obligations and responsibilities under the Act. The QCSC advised that in addition to specific training and education of QCSC staff, FOI awareness is included in that agency's induction program. Other agencies, such as the Department of Justice (DJ) and QPS, also include FOI awareness in their induction programs. Similar efforts were also reported by DE, DEH, DME, DPI, DNR, and the Queensland Audit Office (QAO). The DPI also reported that a review of its FOI processes and the implementation of a number of measures had assisted that agency to "eradicate its FOI backlog."

The Department of Public Works and Housing (DPWH) advised that a review of its records management practices had been undertaken, and an "in-house" procedures manual developed to assist that agency deal with applications under the Act. This has been achieved in spite of the absence of a permanently appointed FOI Coordinator and an increased number of applications received as a result of portfolio changes earlier in the year.

The DTSBI, while undertaking similar actions to those described above, has undertaken a gradual process of placing stickers on departmental files, reminding staff of certain aspects of the FOI Act. The DTSBI is to be congratulated this proactive approach to encouraging and maintaining FOI awareness among its officers.
