1.0 ADMINISTRATION OF THE ACT

Section 108 of the Act states:

" 108.(1) The Minister administering this Act shall, as soon as practicable after the end of each financial year, prepare a report on the operation of this Act during that year and cause a copy of the report to be tabled in the Legislative Assembly.

(2) The report is to include details of the difficulties (if any) encountered during the year by agencies and Ministers in the administration of this Act.

(3) Each responsible Minister must, in relation to the agencies within the Minister's portfolio and in relation to the Minister's official documents, comply with any prescribed requirements concerning that information and the keeping of records for the purposes of this section.

(4) A report under subsection (1) must include, in relation to the financial year in which it relates, particulars of the operations of each agency and Minister under this Act including, in relation to each agency and Minister—

- (a) the number of applications made to each agency and to each Minister; and*
- (b) the number of decisions not to give access to a document, the provisions of this Act under which matter was classified as exempt and the number of times each provision was invoked; and*
- (c) the name and designation of each officer with authority to make a decision in relation to an application, and the number of decisions made by each officer that an applicant was not entitled to access to a document on an application; and*
- (d) the number of applications under sections 52 and 60 for review of a decision, and in relation to each application for review*
 - (i) the name of the officer who made the decision under review; and*
 - (ii) the name and designation of the officer who conducted the review and the decision of the officer; and*
 - (iii) if the officer conducting the review confirmed (in whole or part) a decision classifying matter as exempt matter the provision of this Act under which that decision was made; and*

- (e) the number of applications to the commissioner under section 73 and in relation to each application
 - (i) the decision of the commissioner; and
 - (ii) the details of any other decision made by the commissioner; and
 - (iii) if the decision in respect of which the application was made was a decision that an applicant is not entitled to access to a document in accordance with an application—the provision of this Act under which the matter was classified as exempt matter; and
- (f) the number of notices served upon the principal officer of the agency under section 20(1) and the number of decisions by the principal officer which were adverse to the person's claim; and
- (g) particulars of any disciplinary action taken against an officer in relation to the administration of this Act; and
- (h) the amount of charges collected by the agency or Minister; and
- (i) particulars of any reading room or other facility provided by the agency or Minister for use by applicants or members of the community, and the publications, documents or other information regularly on display in that reading room or other facility; and
- (j) any other facts that indicate an effort by the agency or Minister to implement and administer this Act.

(5) It is sufficient compliance with subsection (1) if the department's annual report for a financial year includes a report about the matters mentioned in this section."

1.1 Role of the Human Rights and Administrative Law Branch

The Human Rights and Administrative Law Branch (the HRALB) has responsibility for the coordination and implementation of the Freedom of Information Act 1992 (the Act) across both State and Local government agencies. More recently the Branch has observed a decline in the demand for these coordination/educational functions.

especially in the Brisbane area. This decline in demand would appear to be as a result of

- ▶ the publication by the HRALB of the Freedom of Information Policy & Procedures Manual with regular updates, which allows for effective self-training by agencies;
- ▶ the development of training programs within larger agencies which are more targeted to the needs of those agencies functions in the Brisbane area, and
- ▶ a gradual process of agencies becoming more familiar with the Act.

However, the HRALB still receives many requests for assistance from Local government authorities and State government departments outside of Brisbane and the HRALB is exploring options available to meet these needs. These options include

- ▶ facilitating training, where requested, by coordinating the experts who can focus on the particular issues facing these agencies;
- ▶ reintroduction of Coordinators Forums;
- ▶ regular updating and supply of the Index of Information Commissioner's Decisions;
- ▶ continued provision of Information Commissioner's Decisions for those agencies unable to access them from the Internet;

As Queenslanders continue to use the FOI legislation quite extensively, the HRALB continues to receive numbers of enquiries from the general public concerning their rights under FOI and how they can access both FOI and JR legislation. These demands are met by the provision of telephone advice, Information Packs and public speaking engagements.

section 108 Annual Report

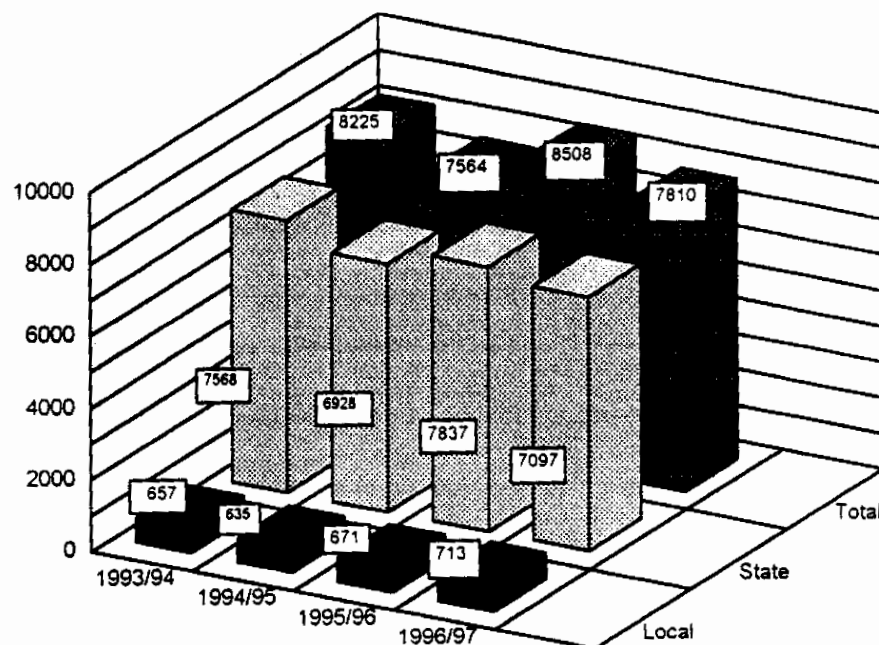

3.0 FREEDOM OF INFORMATION AND ITS USERS

3.1 Number of applications for access to documents

The current reporting period witnessed an average 8.2% reduction in the number of applications for access received by both State and local government agencies. This was not altogether surprising as it had been expected that with the passage of time and the increased availability of documents through administrative access schemes, the overall number of applications for access would fall.

Although the majority of agencies experienced an overall reduction in the number of applications for access, other agencies have witnessed substantial increases, the most notable of which is the Queensland Ambulance Service receiving 154 applications as compared with 80 over the previous 1995/96 reporting period.

Table 1: No. of Applications for Access - All Agencies

Local government agencies received an increased number of applications (713) compared with a total of 671 in the 1995/96 reporting period, even though a number of small local government agencies did not provide statistical information for inclusion in this year's report. Local government agencies have witnessed an average 8.5% increase in applications over the last four years indicating the general public's continuing awareness of their rights under FOI legislation.

3.2 Types of application for access

State government agencies

Since the Act commenced operation on 19 November 1992 for State government agencies, the percentage of personal affairs type applications has continued to fall from a high of 75.4% in the 1992/93 reporting period to its current level of 56.4%. Even allowing for the overall 8.2% drop in applications for access, the downward trend has continued and is attributable in the main to the continued success of administrative access arrangements implemented by agencies, whereby members of the community are able to access a range of documentation outside the Act

Table 2: Type of Application Received - State Government

Local Government agencies

Local government statistics have not changed significantly from the 1995/96 reporting period. The majority of applications for access received by local government agencies were for documents which did not concern the personal affairs of the applicant (non-personal affairs type application). Non-personal affairs type applications increased from 85.2% in 1995/96 to 86.0% for the current reporting period.

Table 3: Type of Application Received - Local Government

3.3 Number of documents considered

The overall number of documents considered as part of applications for access increased by 10.2%, from a 1995/96 total of 971,554 to 1,071,303 for the current reporting period.

At State government level, the drop in total number of documents considered was 4.0% (33,870 documents). However, this reduction was only experienced by the portfolios of Education, Primary Industries, Training and Industrial Relations, Transport and Treasury. Statistics for Primary Industries (DPI) reflect the change in responsibility for water resource management passing from DPI to Natural Resources.

The drop in total number of documents considered for access by the Training and Industrial Relations portfolio was due to both WorkCover Queensland and the Division of Workplace Health and Safety implementing systems of administrative release of documents to interested parties. This has resulted in the number of FOI applications received decreasing from 1936 in 1995/96 to 1175 in the current reporting period, a drop of 39.3%.

Local government agencies received 133,619 documents in the current reporting period. This would appear to represent an increase of 103.8%. However, close perusal of the statistical information indicates that one local government agency (Cardwell Shire) received an application relevant to 100,028 documents. If this one application is removed from the figures, the rate of increase in applications is 26.1% and it is felt that this percentage figure is a much truer reflection of the actual increase in number of documents considered.

3.4 Rates of release

Rates of release of documents, either in full or in part dropped this reporting period. State government agencies achieved a release rate of 90.1% (729,199). Although this is slightly lower than the 94.1% achieved in the 1995/96 reporting period, it is still a good rate of release. The rate of refusal has climbed from 5.9% in 1995/96 to its current rate of 9.9%.

Local government agencies reported a significant drop in release rates from a high of 95.0% in 1995/96 to 55.3% (145,190) in the current reporting period. Once again, it is felt that the Cardwell Shire application for 100,028 documents, of which only 29 documents were released in part or full, has skewed the statistics. If this application is removed from the statistics, the release rate calculates at 89.4% indicating a fairly good rate of release by Local Government agencies. With similar adjustments, the full refusal rate shows as having increased from 5.0% to 10.6%.

Table 5: Documents Released (in part or full) - Local Government

3.5 Response Times

In general, the majority of agencies subject to the Act continue to make concerted efforts to meet the statutory time periods for dealing with applications for access despite reductions in resources. In addition, many agencies finalise requests well within the specified time period.

State government

The current reporting period evidences a small increase in the overall time taken by State government agencies to deal with applications for access. The number of applications processed within 45 days after receipt by an agency fell slightly from 68.2% in 1995/96 to 66.4% in 1996/97. Applications processed within 60 days after receipt by an agency also fell from 11.8% in 1995/96 to 10.6% in 1996/97. Applications processed within 75 days after receipt by an agency increased slightly from 5.5% in 1995/96 to 5.8% in 1996/97 while applications which took longer than 75 days to process increased from 14.5% in 1995/96 to 17.2% in the current reporting period.

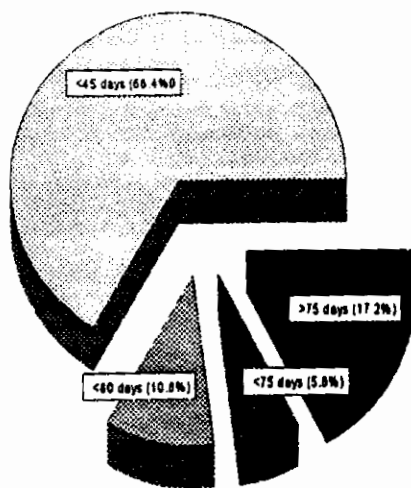

However, by removing the response time statistics of two major agencies, the Queensland Police Service (QPS) and the Department of Families, Youth and Community Care (DFYCC), the response times shared by all other State government agencies improve markedly. For example, only 9.3% of the remaining applications took longer than 75 days to process, compared with 17.2% if the QPS and DFYCC figures are included. Similarly, 74.1% of the remaining applications were processed within 45 days after receipt by an agency, compared with only 66.4% if the QPS and DFYCC figures are included. It should be noted that in some cases, due to the complexity of the application, applicants and agencies agree on extensions of time to complete this process.

Local government

Local government agency response times have changed minimally during 1996/7 with 79.7% of all applications for access being dealt with inside 45 days after receipt by the particular local government. This is a slight drop from the 1995/96 figure of 81.1%.

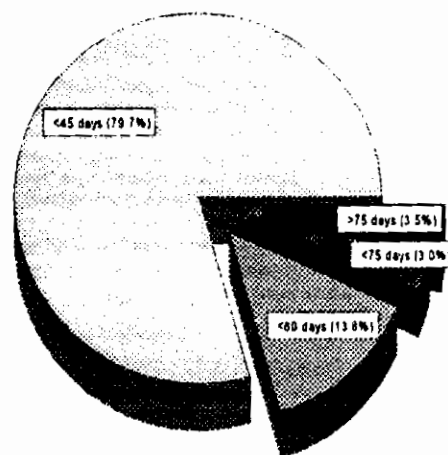

During this reporting period, 3.5% of applications received by local government agencies took longer than 75 days to process.

3.6 Applications for amendment

As with previous years, applicants who seek amendment of documents to which the applicant has had prior access and the applicant believes are inaccurate, incomplete, out-of-date or misleading, comprise a small number of the overall applications made during the current reporting period.

5.0 OPERATION OF THE ACT

5.1 Section 108(2)

Section 108(2) of the Act requires that agencies include details of any difficulties experienced during the reporting period in relation to the administration of the Act

A number of issues, some of which appear to be of continuing concern to several agencies, were raised in submissions relevant to preparation of the 1996/97 report. A summary of the issues raised appears below.

The Department of Education (DE) has had great difficulties with resourcing during the 1996/97 reporting period. These difficulties have impacted on consistent decision making, sufficiency of search issues and training. The resultant increase in internal reviews has further strained the Department's resources.

As suggested in last year's Annual Report, the DE endeavoured to find out why the department had such a high incidence of internal reviews. It was discovered that one-third of all reviews were the result of third party consultations under s. 51 of the Act. The DE is of the opinion that "...consultation is necessary to ensure that people are given an opportunity to exercise their rights, in particular where documents are of a contentious nature or concerning some dispute involving third parties to the application...". However, it was acknowledged that there might be "...a widespread misconception about (a) the ability to make complaints or providing information to an investigation in guaranteed confidence; and (b) the notion of personal affairs when concerning employment matters of Crown employees." Proposals were made for general awareness training regarding personal affairs, employment affairs and when it was not appropriate to give assurances of confidentiality. Unfortunately, resources did not permit such training to go ahead.

New procedures for locating and retrieving documents from regional areas have been instituted which should improve the sufficiency of search issue.

The high level of third party consultations will continue as it is considered that "...third parties have a right to know that documents concerning them are proposed to be released."

The DE advises that a number of Universities now offer administrative access to information such as students marks and assessment materials, examination scripts, feedback to unsuccessful job applicants, etc., which was previously sought through FOI legislation.

Department of Environment (DEH) and the Department of the Premier and Cabinet (DPC) have commented on the failure of applicants to inspect documents upon completion of the FOI process.

Queensland Health (QH) noted that it continues to receive a high volume of applications despite the introduction of a successful administrative access scheme in March 1994.

The Queensland Police Service (QPS) raised a number of issues which have been previously canvassed and included in the submission of that agency concerning the review of the legislation. The QPS notes that none of the issues raised in the Two Year Review appear to have been addressed. Those concerns continue to relate to matters of privacy of individuals, the perceived re-victimisation of victims through contact required under the Act when dealing with applications made by an offender (particularly when those matters relate to sexual offences, child abuse, and domestic violence matters), the difficulties of protecting information relating to criminal intelligence and informants, and the lack of consultation on documents created by QPS but held by other agencies.

Other causes for concern raised by QPS are applications for access to unfinalised investigations necessitating the diversion of investigating police from their primary task to collate and photocopy documents sought; the increasing trend for next of kin, partners, solicitors and insurance companies to seek access to files that have been referred to the Coroner; Court Registry documents not being available for purchase and the use of FOI by solicitors and private investigators to avoid the expense of discovery action.

The QPS provides administrative access to insurance companies and solicitors, subject to certain conditions, with direct access to computer records relating to traffic incidents and criminal offence reports.

Queensland Corrective Services Commission (QCSC) advised that restructuring had reduced the FOI Unit to a FOI Coordinator and a support officer. In order to manage this reduction in resources in combination with a 19.5 % increase in applications, QCSC has "...adopted an 'active' role with 'negotiating' broad FOI applications. Inmates are required to contact Sentence Management staff ...to discuss the content of their Professional Management files." The FOI Unit has designed a specific form which inmates are encouraged to use to clarify and narrow their broad applications. Most inmates are now submitting revised applications which are more manageable.

The QCSC has once again raised the issue of amending s. 44(3) to include information of a psychological nature to permit release of that kind of information through a psychologist nominated by the inmate "...as inmates should be given access to their own personal information."

The QCSC has extended its administrative release policy to include prison medical files in addition to prison detention files

The Department of Primary Industries, Fisheries and Forestry (DPI) once again commented on the changes to the structure of both DPI and the Department of Natural Resources (DNR) and the impact of those changes on documents shared by both agencies. A problem arose with documents held by the Corporate Services Agency (CSA) (the responsibility of both DPI and DNR). "To assist DNR, [DPI] created a network of officers to identify documents held by the CSA which relate to DNR. This has ensured that [DPI] does not access DNR files and DNR does not access [DPI's] files."

The restructure has resulted in a number of "sufficiency of search" internal reviews. The DPI has adopted the practice of part transfers of internal reviews although s. 52 does not provide for this. DPI suggests "...section 52 should be amended to allow for the part transfer of internal reviews making provision that they become a new application as if they were made under Part 3 of the FOI Act."

Queensland Transport (QT) raised two problems - it feels it is uneconomical to collect small amounts of charges (under $10.00) and requests that provision be made within the Act to waive fees and charges in certain conditions. Secondly, the lack of provision to allow consultation under Internal Review.

Department of Families, Youth and Community Care (DYCC), Department of Economic Development and Trade (DEDT), Department of Local Government and Planning (DLGP) and the Department of Emergency Services (DES) reported no operational difficulties during the reporting period.

The DFYCC has continued to give priority to the development of procedures and practice for the administrative release of information relating to child protection services which has minimised the need for children and parents to rely on the FOI legislation to access their information. In 1996/97 the Information Review Officer dealt with 113 requests for information.

Vexatious Applicants/Fees and Charges

Several agencies [DH, Department of Mines & Energy (DME), DT, Legal Aid (Queensland), Department of Tourism, Small Business & Industry (TSSBI), QCSC] have again raised the issue of vexatious applicants. These requests invariably entail large volumes of documents, often ask for documents already supplied and the applicants refuse to negotiate the scope of their request. Several agencies have suggested that a more appropriate fees and charging regime would be helpful in deterring these vexatious applicants and in persuading applicants to limit the scope of their requests. One agency suggested a charge for supervised access

The DTSBI states "While there may be difficulties in devising a mechanism to deal with vexatious applicants which does not compromise the rights of genuine applicants, consideration nevertheless should be given to including provision in the Act for Departments to refuse to process requests of a vexatious or frivolous nature."

Statistical Reporting

The HRALB provides a computer program (FOIDERS) specifically designed for recording of s. 108 statistics, free of charge to interested agencies. This was designed in 1992 and is not Windows based. A number of agencies have requested that this program be updated to reflect changing practices and operate under Windows. One agency (QPS) has questioned the necessity for such detailed statistical reporting and considers the resources expended in updating the database could be better used in processing FOI applications.

Statement of Affairs

The Department of Training & Industrial Relations (DTIR) is concerned by the amount of resources expended in publishing the Statement of Affairs when demand is minimal. It should be noted that a number of agencies publish their Statement of Affairs as part of their Departmental Annual Report in an effort to keep costs to a minimum.

5.2 Section 108(4)

Section 108(4) of the Act requires certain particulars of the operation of each agency and Minister to be included in the report tabled in the Legislative Assembly. Information in respect of s. 108(4)(a)-(e) and (h) is included in the relevant appendices which follow.

In relation to s. 108(4)(f), one agency reported receipt of a notice under s. 20(1). No decision was made by the agency's principal officer which was adverse to the person's claim.

No agency reported any disciplinary action taken against an officer in relation to the administration of the Act as required under s. 108(4)(g).

Most State government agencies advised in respect of s. 108(4)(i), that a reading room or other facility was made available for use by applicants or other members of the community for inspection purposes. Where a dedicated reading room was not available, all other agencies advised that arrangements to use an appropriate facility were made as required. Most agencies reported that policy documentation and other information was available for inspection, or regularly on display in the relevant room where a permanent reading room or similar facility was available.

In relation to s. 108(4)(j), a number of agencies reported that inspite of reductions in resources, educative programs or awareness sessions were conducted on a regular basis to ensure all agency officers were aware of their obligations and responsibilities under the Act. The DE has expressed concern that this lack of resources precludes "face to face training and consultation sessions away from the Brisbane Metropolitan and near metropolitan area which means inequitable availability of training to regional areas."

Many agencies have introduced administrative access to information previously sought under FOI. This, together with many other initiatives has resulted in improved administration of the Act. Agencies are to be congratulated on their efforts to comply with s. 108((4)(j) of the Act.

The DPI have authorised a number of extra decision-makers, reformed the internal review process and now utilises its electronic mail network to process applications with a resultant improvement in services.

The DTSBI have adopted 'Best Practice' in the administration of the Act, have included the FOI application form and Rights to Review and Appeal Information sheet on the Department's Quality Assurance System and have continued with their identification of files reminding staff of certain aspects of the FOI Act.

DTIR and its agencies have also included FOI work procedures as part of their Quality Assurance Systems.
