

Minister's introduction

This is the 13th annual report to the Queensland Parliament on the operation of the Freedom of Information Act 1992 (Qld) (the Act).

The reporting period ushered in some significant amendments to the Act with the passing of the Freedom of Information and Other Legislation Amendment Bill on 26 May 2005. Information on these amendments are summarised in this report.

Agencies faced significant challenges in ensuring the smooth integration of these legislative changes, but I believe they have risen to the challenge admirably.

Since early 2005, the Department of Justice and Attorney-General has revitalised its lead agency role for the whole-of-Government co-ordination of freedom of information in Queensland. The Department's Freedom of Information and Privacy Unit was established in part to increase community access to, and awareness of, the FOI process, and to facilitate inter-agency training and communication to ensure a consistent approach to FOI administration.

In 2001, the Legal, Constitutional and Administrative Review Committee's Report No. 32, Freedom of Information in Queensland, was tabled in Parliament. The Department's Freedom of Information and Privacy Unit plays an important role in ensuring that many of the recommendations made in that report continue to be implemented.

The 2004–05 FOI Annual Report gives an overview of FOI across both the State and local government in Queensland. A total of 12,554 FOI applications were received by State and local government agencies during the 2004–05 year, which is an increase of 2% from the previous year.

The rate of access to documents in 2004–05 is generally consistent with access rates across Australia with full or partial access granted to nearly 90% of documents.

I am pleased to present the 2004–05 FOI Annual Report to Parliament.

The Honourable Linda Lavarch MP
Minister for Justice and Attorney-General

Activity under the Freedom of Information Act 1992

INTRODUCTION

The Freedom of Information Act 1992 (Qld) (the Act) gives people a right, subject to limited exceptions, to access or amend documents held by Ministers, State government departments, local government and public authorities.

Under s.108 of the Act, the Minister responsible for administering the Act is required to prepare a report on the operation of the Act and table the report in Parliament. The 2004–05 report has been prepared in response to that requirement.

The fundamental principle underpinning freedom of information is that a public right of access to information makes government more open, accountable and participatory. The Act also acknowledges that individual citizens require access to the information recorded by government concerning their personal affairs and provides the means to ensure that such information is accurate and up-to-date.

These principles are qualified by a recognition that certain information should not be accessible under the Act because essential public and private interests would suffer if there was an unrestricted public right to access all classes of information, including, for example, information about the private affairs of individuals.

The 2004–05 Annual Report is the 13th prepared under s.108 since the commencement of the Act in 1992. It represents a significant whole-of-government endeavour. All agencies subject to the Act have, throughout the year, collected and recorded detailed information about their FOI operations for inclusion in this report.

A note on the personal/non-personal classifications

FOI applications are classified as either 'personal' or 'non-personal'. These terms go beyond a distinction between those lodged by private citizens and those lodged by organisations. Any application for a document that does not concern the applicant's 'personal affairs', is a 'non-personal' application which is subject to an application fee set by regulation. 'Personal' applications are not subject to an application fee. 'Non-personal' applications may be subject to processing charges if the application takes more than two hours to process.

The term 'personal affairs' is not defined in the Act, however, the Information Commissioner discussed the concept in detail in Re Stewart and Department of Transport (93006), which has become the leading case in guiding agencies in their interpretation of the meaning of 'personal affairs'. A document concerns the applicant's personal affairs if it contains at least some information about the applicant's personal affairs. The individual's personal affairs in this context concerns the private and domestic aspects of life. If one or more of the documents requested cannot be characterised in this way, the application is a 'non-personal' application.

Information about a person's 'personal affairs' does not cover every piece of information about a person, it covers only information about a person that is 'personal', that is, information about the private aspects of a person's life, not about things the person does in a job or business, or as part of a public activity. Therefore, information about a person's work or business does not usually qualify as information concerning his/her personal affairs. The Office of the Information Commissioner gives the following as examples of information that usually concerns the personal affairs of a person:

- family relationships
- health
- personal relationships with other people
- personal details, like date of birth or height
- signature
- home address or telephone number
- information about a person's domestic residence
- information about a student's education
- information about what has happened to a prisoner in prison
- personal income (however, it has been held that the public interest requires disclosure of the gross income payable to a public servant)
- personal/domestic financial obligations (as distinct from financial obligations of a business).

OVERVIEW 2004–05

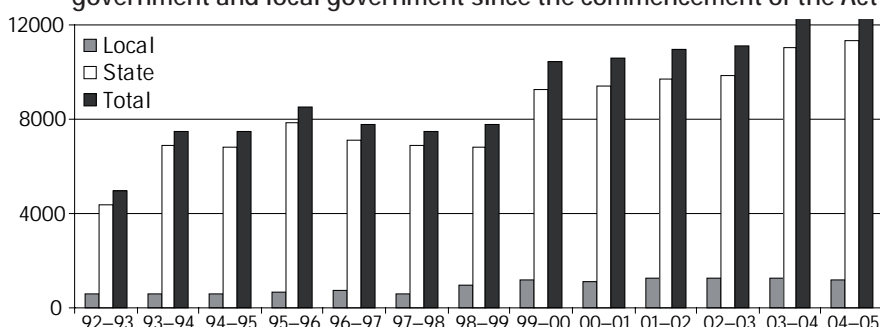

During the 2004–05 reporting period, a total of 12,554 applications (5,390 personal and 7,164 non-personal) were received. This is 266 more than the previous year and an increase of 2%. State Government agencies received 11,334 applications (5,215 personal and 6,119 non-personal) and the local government sector received 1,220 applications (175 personal and 1,045 non-personal).

Table 1 Number and percentage of personal and non-personal applications for the period 2004–05 for State Government and Local Government.

2004–05	Personal no. of applications	Non-personal no. of applications	Total no. of applications
State Government	5,215 (46%)	6,119 (54%)	11,334
Local Government	175 (14.3%)	1,045 (85.7%)	1,220

Comparison between the number of applications received for State government and local government since the commencement of the Act.

Highest rate of applications

Figure 2 shows which State government agencies received the largest proportions of access applications. The most access applications were received by the Queensland Health portfolio, 2,646 applications, which represented a 28% increase on 2003–04. In the previous year, the Queensland Police Service received the highest number of applications. Increases were also reported by:

Figure 2

- Crime and Misconduct Commission
- Department of Employment and Training
- DATSIP and Disability Services
- Local Government, Planning, Sport and Recreation
- Queensland Transport
- Treasury.

Access rates

In the reporting period, access was granted either in full or in part to 87.8% of applications received.

Table 2 shows that for the past 6 years, the access rate has been relatively consistent at an average of 89.7%.

Table 2 Access rate 1999–2000 to 2004–05

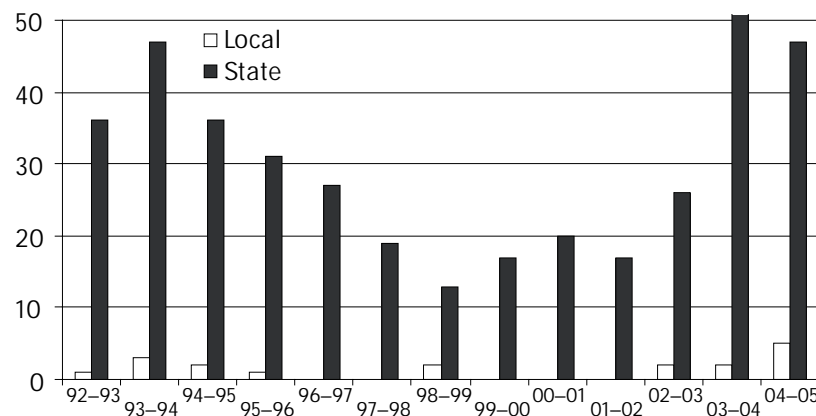

Year	No. of FOI applications received	% of FOI applications released (in full or part)	% of FOI applications withheld
1999–2000	9,286	87.0%	13.0%
2000–01	9,424	89.0%	11.0%
2001–02	9,708	91.9%	8.1%
2002–03	9,872	93.0%	7.0%
2003–04	11,029	89.7%	10.3%
2004–05	12,554	87.8%	12.2%

Amendment applications

Forty-five applications for amendment of documents were received across both State and local government in 2004–05. This represents a decrease of 34.7% on the 2003–04 figures. Figure 3 shows the yearly trend comparisons since 1992–93.

Comparison of amendment applications received during the Act's operation.

External review

A total of 307 applications for review were lodged with the Information Commissioner in 2004–05.

Fees and charges

During 2004–05, $177,657 was collected in application fees for access to non-personal information and $219,149 was collected in access and processing charges across the Queensland public sector including local government.

Report on the operation of the Act

Section 108 of the Act requires that as soon as practicable after the end of each financial year, the Minister administering the Act must prepare a report on the operation of the Act. Section 108 provides:

's.108. Report to Legislative Assembly by agencies and Ministers

- (1) The Minister administering this Act shall, as soon as practicable after the end of each financial year, prepare a report on the operation of this Act during that year and cause a copy of the report to be tabled in the Legislative Assembly.
- (2) The report is to include details of the difficulties (if any) encountered during the year by agencies and Ministers in the administration of this Act.
- (3) Each responsible Minister must, in relation to the agencies within the Minister's portfolio and in relation to the Minister's official documents, comply with any prescribed requirements concerning that information and the keeping of records for the purposes of this section.
- (4) A report under subsection (1) must include, in relation to the financial year to which it relates, particulars of the operations of each agency and Minister under this Act including, in relation to each agency and Minister—
 - (a) the number of applications made to each agency and to each Minister; and
 - (b) the number of decisions not to give access to a document, the provisions of this Act under which matter was classified as exempt and the number of times each provision was invoked; and
 - (c) the name and designation of each officer with authority to make a decision in relation to an application, and the number of decisions made by each officer that an applicant was not entitled to access to a document on an application; and
 - (d) the number of applications under sections 52 and 60 for review of a decision, and in relation to each application for review—
 - (i) the name of the officer who made the decision under review; and
 - (ii) the name and designation of the officer who conducted the review and the decision of the officer; and
 - (iii) if the officer conducting the review confirmed (in whole or part) a decision classifying matter as exempt matter—the provision of this Act under which that decision was made; and
 - (e) the number of applications to the commissioner under section 73 and in relation to each application—

- (i) the decision of the commissioner; and
 - (ii) the details of any other decision made by the commissioner; and
 - (iii) if the decision in respect of which the application was made was a decision that an applicant is not entitled to access to a document in accordance with an application—the provision of this Act under which the matter was classified as exempt matter; and
 - (f) the number of notices served upon the principal officer of the agency under section 20(1) and the number of decisions by the principal officer which were adverse to the person's claim; and
 - (g) particulars of any disciplinary action taken against an officer in relation to the administration of this Act; and
 - (h) the amount of fees and charges collected by the agency or Minister; and
 - (i) particulars of any reading room or other facility provided by the agency or Minister for use by applicants or members of the community, and the publications, documents or other information regularly on display in that reading room or other facility; and
 - (j) any other facts that indicate an effort by the agency or Minister to implement and administer this Act.
- (5) It is sufficient compliance with subsection (1) if the department's annual report for a financial year includes a report about the matters mentioned in this section.'

The appendices to the report	Appendices 1.1–1.12 show the FOI activity across the Queensland public sector in accordance with s.108(4) of the Act.
Difficulties encountered —s.108(2)	Some agencies reported difficulties in dealing with a backlog of applications (Child Safety, Corrective Services, and Queensland Health). In particular, Queensland Health reported a significant increase in the number of both FOI and administrative access applications. Queensland Health also reported that the introduction of the many new provisions in the Freedom of Information and Other Legislation Bill 2005 had a considerable impact on the way this legislation is managed within the department, particularly given its decentralised decision-making model. As there is a small team within Queensland Health responsible for education and support of some 160 delegated decision-makers across Queensland, the workload implications for the introduction of the amendments were considerable.
Number of applications —s.108(4)(a)	The appendices to the report contain information detailing the number of applications made to each agency, and for official documents of Ministers:

- Appendix 1.1: Number of access applications (State Government)
- Appendix 1.2: Number of access applications (Local Government)

Although reporting on the number of personal/non-personal applications for State and Local Government is not a requirement of the Act, this information has been included in the Annual Report (Appendices 1.5 and 1.6) since its inception.

Decisions not to give access –s.108(4)(b)

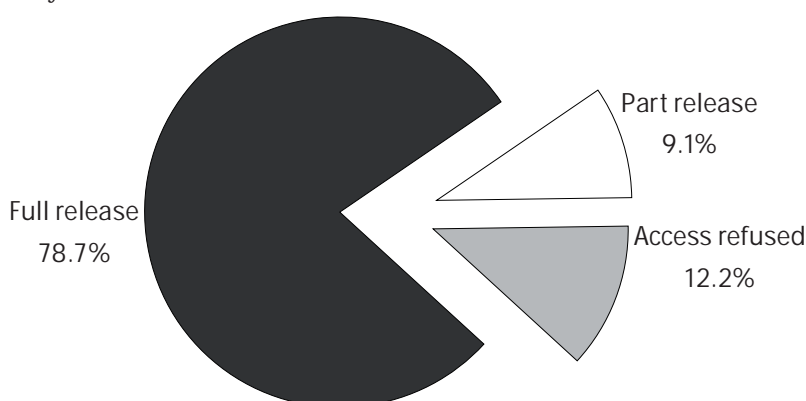

Information about the decisions on documents is contained in:

- Appendix 1.7: Action taken on documents (State Government)
- Appendix 1.8: Action taken on documents (Local Government)

Action taken on documents considered

Access to documents may be granted in full or in part. A partially released document may have some information deleted or blacked out on the copy provided to the access applicant. Figure 4 indicates the actions taken on documents considered by State Government agencies and Ministers in relation to their official documents during 2004–05. The rate of access for Queensland in 2004–05 is generally consistent with access rates across Australia with full or partial access granted to nearly 90% of documents.

Applications for review by Information Commissioner –s.108(4)(e)

The figures on applications for external review are supplied by the Office of the Information Commissioner. In the reporting period, 92 un-finalised applications for external review were carried forward from the previous reporting period. Some 307 new applications for external review were received during the reporting period with a total of 265 applications being finalised in 2004–05. The number of applications carried forward into the 2005–06 reporting period was 134.

The Office of the Information Commissioner (OIC) publishes important decisions containing broadly applicable statements of principle for the administration of the Act as a formal decision series. The formal series, in full text, is made available on the OIC website, the Australian Legal Information Institute (AustLII) website and published by LBC Information Services in the Queensland Administrative Reports. Summaries of unreported decisions (letter decisions) are published on the Information Commissioner's website along with information sheets and practitioners' guidelines on the application of the Act.

Statement of Affairs and notices received
—s.108(4)(f)

Section 18 of the Act requires that each agency publish, at least yearly, a statement of affairs which should include a description of the agency's structure and functions, the affect on members of the community, any arrangements for public participation in policy formulation, the kinds of documents held and access policies, and other aspects of the agency's business. Under s.20(1) of the Act, a person can serve a notice on any agency contending that it is not complying with its obligation to publish a proper statement of affairs. No notices were served in 2004–05.

Disciplinary action
—s.108(4)(g)

There were no reported instances of disciplinary action arising from the administration of the Act.

Fees and charges collected by agencies—s.108(4)(h)

Information about the amounts of fees and charges collected by agencies in the reporting period is contained in:

- Appendix 1.11: Fees and charges (State Government)
- Appendix 1.12: Fees and charges (Local Government)

Some agencies reported significant changes in the amount of fees and charges collected in 2004–05 compared to the previous period. The amount of fees and charges collected by the Department of Natural Resources and Mines, decreased from $35,295.37 to $22,778.70. During this period, the Department of Energy separated from the Department of Natural Resources and Mines, which may have had some impact on the amount of fees and charges collected. Agencies reporting increases in the amount of fees and charges collected include Queensland Health ($23,835.51 to $44,867.80), Department of Education and the Arts ($7,268.40 to $11,089.01) and Queensland Transport ($30,756.70 to $40,907.56).

The total amount of fees and charges collected by agencies remains low, representing a small part of the costs incurred by agencies in administering the Act.

A factor that influences the amount of charges collected by agencies is the requirement that there are no processing charges for applications that take less than two hours to process. Some agencies will collect less in charges simply because a greater proportion of non-personal applications received can be dealt with in less than two hours. Another factor is that agencies give applicants the opportunity to reframe the terms of their application with a view to reduce charges once the notice of preliminary assessment is advised.

Reading room and other access facilities—s.108(4)(i)

A number of agencies, for example, the Department of Primary Industries and Fisheries, have established dedicated reading rooms in which internally and externally published literature is retailed, and policy documents and some library holdings are made available to interested members of the community. All agencies have rooms generally available for inspection of documents.

Efforts in administering the Act—s.108(4)(j)

Section 108(4)(j) of the Act requires this report to detail any efforts made by the agency or Minister in administering the Act.

The reporting period saw the continued implementation of many of the recommendations made by the Legal, Constitutional and Administrative Review Committee in Report No. 32 of 2001 on Freedom of Information in Queensland (the LCARC Report). This report followed an inquiry lasting almost three years, which was the first public inquiry into the operation of the Act since its introduction in 1992.

Legislative recommendations

Many of the legislative changes recommended by LCARC were incorporated into the Act by the Freedom of Information and Other Legislation Bill 2005 (the Bill) which was assented to on 31 May 2005. One of the greatest challenges faced by the lead agency and FOI practitioners during the reporting period was gaining an understanding of the amendments. The following summary explains the more significant amendments to the Act made in 2005.

Child applications

The Act now makes specific provision for applications to be made by and on behalf of children under s.50A. In making decisions on applications, decision-makers may take into account the best interests of the child.

Application of FOI to certain tribunals

The Act no longer applies to the judicial or quasi-judicial functions of the following tribunals (s.11(1)(fa)):

- Anti-Discrimination Tribunal
- Children Services Tribunal
- Guardian and Administration Tribunal
- Commercial and Consumer Tribunal
- Land and Resources Tribunal
- Land Tribunal
- Mental Health Review Tribunal.

Application of Act to certain offenders

Section 11E has been inserted to prevent a specified class of offenders from seeking access to risk assessment documents.

Refusal of certain applications

The Act now provides that applications may be refused on the grounds that the documents do not exist or are unlocatable. It has been made clear now that agencies are only required to search 'back-up' tapes in limited circumstances (s.28A).

If an applicant applies for access to a document for which they have previously applied, the agency may now refuse to deal with the application if there is no reasonable basis for again seeking access to the document (s.29B).

Time limits

The following time limits were amended:

- deciding an internal review—extended from 14 to 28 days (s.52)
- lodging an application for external review—decreased from 60 to 28 days (s.73)
- access to documents—a time limit of 60 days is now imposed on applicants to access documents, commencing from either the date of notification of the decision, or, if access is deferred, from the date access is no longer deferred (s.31A)
- Certain time limits can now be paused in order for certain things to be ascertained (for example, a decision on financial hardship—s.27A).

Application fee and the process and access charges

The Bill introduced significant changes to the fees and charges scheme under the Act.

The main features of the new charges scheme are:

- A number of definitions relevant to the charges scheme have been included in s.7 of the Act.
- Generally, an applicant will not be required by the Final Assessment Notice to pay any more than the amount notified in the Preliminary Assessment Notice.
- If an applicant pays processing and access charges and the amount is more than the amount notified in the Final Assessment Notice then the amount of overpayment must be refunded to the applicant (s.35E).

Changes to certain exemption provisions

- Research—clarifies that finished research is included in the coverage of the ‘matter that relates to research’ (s.45(3)).
- Confidential communication—the amendment makes it clear that s.46(2) does not apply to deliberative process matter communicated by a person or body in the capacity of a Minister, a consultant to a Minister, a staff member of a Minister, an officer of an agency, or the State or an agency (s.46(2)).
- Access to personal affairs information via health care professionals—this was formerly limited to medical practitioners, however, now an agency may appoint an appropriately qualified ‘health care professional’ to make access decisions where disclosure to the applicant may be prejudicial to their mental or physical well-being (s.44(3)).

Law enforcement and public safety

- Serious harassment and intimidation—matter may now be exempt if its disclosure could reasonably be expected to result in a person being subjected to a serious act of harassment or intimidation (s.42(1)(ca)).
- Documents obtained, used or prepared for an investigation of a prescribed crime body, or another agency, in the performance of the prescribed functions of the prescribed crime body will now qualify for exemption under s.42(3A).

Miscellaneous

- In preparing the annual report under s.108 of the Act, it is no longer necessary to report on decision-makers by name, however, from the next reporting period, statistics on Preliminary Assessment Notices and Final Assessment Notices must be included.

- The Information Commissioner may now declare a person to be a vexatious applicant under s.96A of the Act.
- The Act now defines a deceased person's 'eligible family member' by setting out a hierarchy of relatives with whom agencies should consult. This term replaces the previous term 'person concerned' and is used again in s.53 where the 'eligible family member' of a deceased person may apply for amendment of information about that person's personal affairs (ss.51 and 53).
- Applicants applying for amendment of information must now specify how the information is inaccurate, incomplete, out of date or misleading, and the grounds for the claim. If the applicant claims the information is inaccurate or misleading, they must specify how they want the information to be corrected (s.54).

Non-legislative recommendations

The non-legislative recommendations arising from the LCARC inquiry generally related to the whole-of-Government co-ordination and promotion of FOI in Queensland. In the period 2004–05, the Department developed a strategy to co-ordinate the implementation of some of the recommendations.

Key initiatives

The whole-of-Government freedom of information initiative is coordinated by the Freedom of Information and Privacy Unit located in the Department of Justice and Attorney-General and focuses on four areas, namely, education and training, information and support, community awareness and policy and legislation.

Education and training

This initiative aims to improve FOI decision-making across the public sector, provide FOI practitioners with flexible, targeted training opportunities, and to support in-house training for agencies. In April of 2005, a dedicated position for FOI and Privacy Training was established to plan and co-ordinate FOI and Privacy training initiatives across the Queensland public sector. The first training initiative focused on preparing the agencies for the 2005 amendments to the Act. A range of information sessions were held in metropolitan and regional centres to explain the amendments. The training initiative promises to increase the FOI expertise in agencies so that the Act is applied expertly, appropriately and consistently across State and local government.

Information and support

The Department's Freedom of Information and Privacy Unit also provides Queenslanders with information about FOI and offers a timely support and advice service for FOI practitioners through publications and the FOI help line. Another initiative was the design of the Queensland FOI website (www.foi.qld.gov.au) which provides information to the community and agencies on the FOI process in Queensland.

Support to FOI officers is also promoted through the continued work of the State Government FOI Network. This Network serves to disseminate information and provide a forum for discussion on general FOI issues of common concern to practitioners. During the year, the concept of establishing Local Government FOI Networks across regional Queensland was canvassed with the likely rollout for south east and far north Queensland in the coming year.

Community

In addition to assisting the public sector, the Freedom of Information and Privacy Unit promotes awareness of FOI and administrative access schemes to the broader community and interest groups such as the media, private legal practitioners and community groups.

The Unit provides assistance to the community via the FOI help line. An FOI brochure has been published and will be provided in community languages in the coming year.

Policy and legislation

The Freedom of Information and Privacy Unit also performs the functions of policy development and legislative review in consultation with stakeholders.

Other efforts in administering the Act

Administrative access

Administrative access schemes are an alternative to seeking access to documents under freedom of information. Agencies generally provide for access through administrative release where, for example, the applicant is seeking access to their own personal information, or where the information is generally publicly accessible as a public register. Access through an administrative scheme may be provided on payment of a fee, or for no fee at all, depending on the information. It is often the case that access to documents under an administrative access scheme is provided within a shorter time frame than under FOI.

A good example of an effective administrative access scheme is the policy launched in February 2005 by Queensland Health to ensure that the administrative release of thousands of health records continues to occur in a timely and efficient manner.

The Department of Industrial Relations also has a number of administrative access schemes and reports that its administrative release continues to prove a popular source of access for interested parties.

The Department of Natural Resources and Mines reports that it provides training to all officers involved in the 'administrative release programs' to ensure consistency of approach across the department.

Electronic processing

Agencies are moving towards electronic FOI processing in which physical files and relevant correspondence are stored electronically, thereby reducing the reliance on paper copies of documents. Most State government departments and a number of other agencies are currently using 'redaction' technology for use in editing and storing documents that was adapted by the FOI Unit at Queensland Treasury to suit Queensland FOI.

Redaction technology enables agencies to provide applicants with electronic documents where appropriate. Documents can be provided on CD-ROM, or via USB. In high volume applications, electronic copies of documents are a convenient and inexpensive access alternative for applicants. Some agencies processing FOI applications electronically also report time savings which has the potential to reduce costs to applicants as well as reduce the demand on agency FOI Units.
